The City of Charleston, Shifa Clinic Hosting First Clinic at Hope Center on August 19

Charleston, S.C. — The city of Charleston and the Shifa Clinic will host the first community health fair at the new Hope Center, 529 Meeting Street, on Friday, August 19, 2022 from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. (flyer attached.)

Free health screenings will be available, including blood pressure, lung cancer, colon cancer and registrations for free mammograms, among others.

Covid-19 vaccines will be available to persons ages 6-months-old and older.

Those who attend the health fair will have the option to meet with a prenatal health worker, as well as register their children for free health care and vaccines. Child development screenings will also be available for children up to 6-years-old.

Stations will be set up for participants to sign up for monthly home grocery deliveries and to become a Shifa patient.

Health and hygiene kits will be available while supplies last.

About the Shifa Clinic: The goal of the Shifa Clinic is to “provide compassionate and high-quality medical care to uninsured, indigent populations” and “support efforts towards reducing food insecurity,” according to their website.
