

CITY OF CHARLESTON ARCHITECTURAL INVENTORY

Survey Ratings: Charleston, South Carolina

The following lists employ a rating system based on architectural or visual significance. These Buildings were surveyed first in March of 1973, by a committee composed of Dr. William Murtaugh, Keeper of the National Register of Historic Places, Professor Bernard Lemann, Tulane University School of Architecture, and Mr. Carl Feiss and Mr. Russell Wright, consultants to the city. The subsequent survey was completed in 1986 by Geier, Brown and Renfrow Architects of Washington, D.C. Buildings are placed into one of the following four groups:

Group 1: Exceptional- Buildings of the highest architectural design quality. Well proportioned, sophisticated use of architectural features (doors, windows, classical orders or other period designs, chimneys, verandahs, massing, materials, textures, refined details, craftsmanship, elegant and innovative. To be preserved and protected in situ at all costs.

Group 2: Excellent- High style regional architecture (fine "Charleston Style"), well designed and proportioned, good detail, spirited, dignified, frequently innovative, rare, and always attractive and interesting. Of irreplaceable importance, to be preserved in situ at all costs.

Group 3: Significant- Good architectural quality. Vernacular. Of less sophistication and refinement than "Excellent". Modest, appealing, curious, interesting. To be retained and protected.

Group 4: Contributory- Buildings of architectural value without which the value of those buildings rated in Groups 1-3 would be lessened. To be preserved and retained.

In addition to the four groups outlined above, two qualifying symbols were used in the evaluation: a property marked with an * after its numerical rating should be further researched, including interiors, with the * indicating that the rating might be upgraded if new research uncovers data warranting such action. Other scores include a minus sign, -, which indicates that adverse changes to the fabric of the building under study have taken place. To remove the minus, these buildings will have to be rehabilitated.
